Kemp Recognized with Young American Award

Jason Kemp, Southern Region chief and Eagle Scout from Mount Airy, North Carolina, was one of five recipients of the national Young American Award. The award, which includes an unrestricted grant of $5,000, was presented in May at the BSA's National Annual Meeting in Boston, Massachusetts.

Requirements for the award state that recipients must have achieved exceptional excellence in one or more of the fields of art, athletics, business, community service, education, government, humanities, literature, music, religion, or science while maintaining an above-average scholastic grade point average. Local councils select nominees for the national award. The Young American Awards are coordinated by Learning for Life, a subsidiary of the BSA.

Jason is a junior at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, pursuing a degree in geography. Upon entering the university, Jason earned the prestigious Morehead scholarship. Through the Morehead Foundation, Jason worked on the Crow Indian reservation in by Nathan Finnin Montana last summer. He also participates with the UNC Sailing Club and the White Ribbon Campaign to help end violence against women.

> Jason is a graduate of North Surry High School in Mount Airy, where he was valedictorian and student body president. He is a Vigil Honor member of Wahissa Lodge. He has served Scouting as the SR-7B chief, conclave chairman, and Camp Raven Knob staff member. Jason serves as an assistant Scoutmaster for a new troop in Chapel Hill, N.C.

Looking Back... by Clay Capp

Receiving the Young American Award in 1976 carried an additional surprise for National Order of the Arrow Chairman Brad Haddock, who was the 1975-76 national chief of the Order. His future wife, Terri, also was at the BSA National Annual Meeting that year in New York City to receive the Young American Award for having distinguished herself as Girl's Nation president and as president of the Associated Students of Kansas, a state lobbying group.

The couple met at the banquet the night of the awards presentation and hit it off immediately. "People kept asking us how long we had known each other [because we got along so well]," Mr. Haddock said. They were engaged one month later and married a year and a half later. The Haddocks have been married 23 years and have two chil-

"It's great that Scouting recognizes outstanding youth leaders and encourages people to be better than they ever could be. The Young American Award is a symbol of that," Mrs. Haddock said of the recognition that changed her life.

Butler and Walcutt Receive Silver Antelope

National Order of the Arrow committee members Jack Butler and Bruce Walcutt received the Silver Antelope Award at the BSA's recent National Annual Meeting in Boston, Massachusetts. The National Court of Honor presents the Silver Antelope Award to Scouters who provide distinguished service to youth within their region.

Mr. Butler is a member of the North Florida Council and Echokotee Lodge in Jacksonville, Florida. In addition to local troop and lodge support, he serves as chair of the OA's communications and marketing committee and has served as a lodge adviser. He has worked with national OA events since the early 1990s. Most recently, he served as lead adviser for the new lodge Adviser Training Seminar at Philmont. Mr. Butler is an account director for The Standard Register.

Mr. Walcutt is registered with the Capital Area Council and Tonkawa Lodge based in Austin, Texas. As a youth, he was active in OA ceremonies and Indian dancing. He also served on summer camp staff. As an adult, Bruce has served on the staffs of the National Scout Jamboree, Philmont Scout Ranch, Philmont Training Center, and a Wood Badge course. Currently, he is serving as the national Camping task force chair and a member of the Philmont Scout Ranch committee. Mr. Walcutt is president of The County Line Inc., a chain of restaurants headquartered in Austin.

Mentoring 101

A team's continued success is guaranteed through the exchange of information and skills from one generation to the next. Mentors do not have age requirements. Seasoned team members become mentors for inexperienced team members. Experienced lodge chiefs can mentor newer lodge chiefs. Adults can mentor other adults.

Mentoring relationships work best when they are developed in conjunction with friendship and trust. A mentoring adviser must

Once trust has been established, the adviser can begin to aid the youth in the fulfillment of his assignment by providing resources and by referring the youth to others who have specific expertise. An adviser also serves as a sounding board for ideas and to help develop action plans. Advisers assist youths in carrying out their action plan but do not take over the project. Observing the youth's leadership style can facilitate the reflection

An adviser can help develop the youth's writing and speaking skills. Once the youth has drafted an article or speech, the adviser reviews and make suggestions regarding con-

Good leaders develop their own replacements and ensure the longevity of the team's success. By having the existing leader mentor the new leader, the team can avoid downtime that often accompanies a change in leadership.

Mentors focus on more than the skills that are essential to the team's success--they have a holistic approach and help others develop life skills that are applicable at school, work and home. Good mentors also become lifelong friends to their youth.

Where Are They Now?

Angelo Cappelli, who served as the 1988 national vice chief of the Order of the Arrow has amassed a record of service to Scouting that spans nearly two decades. As a youth, he earned the rank of Eagle Scout and served terms as section secretary, section vice chief, and section chief. In addition, as a national officer, he served on the national Order of the Arrow committee, national Advancement committee, and National Executive Board.

As an adult Scouter, Mr. Cappelli has been active as a member of the executive board of the West Central Florida Council, Seminole, Florida. His numerous positions include Friends of Scouting chair, vice president of finance, council treasurer, and district chair. In recognition of his outstanding service, Mr. Cappelli has received the Vigil Honor, the Founder's Award, the Distinguished Service Award, and the Silver Beaver Award.

Upon graduating from Yale University with a bachelor's degree in economics, Mr. Cappelli continued his studies at Fordham University in New York City, earning a law degree and an MBA in finance. After working on Wall Street in the Management Controls Division of Goldman Sachs, he returned to his native St. Petersburg, Florida, in 1995, where he currently serves as vice president of investments, working as a financial adviser for UBS PaineWebber.

Angelo and his wife, Michelle, were married in 1994 and are the proud parents of two daughters, Anna, 3, and Sara, 2.

Profiles in Service

Paugassett Lodge

The members of Paugassett Lodge in Derby, Connecticut, helped conduct one of the largest food drives in the history of the Housatonic Council. By day's end, more than 42,000 cans and other nonperishable food items had been collected and distributed to three area food banks, a 20 percent increase from the previous year's food drive.

Under the direction of Lodge Chief Patrick DiCaprio, 67 Arrowmen contributed more than 825 service hours to the project. Activities included operating three food dropoff locations, sorting and packaging nearly 500 boxes of canned and dry goods, and transporting all of the food to designated food banks in the Lower Naugatuck Valley.

In recognition of its outstanding community service efforts, Paugassett Lodge was one of eight lodges to receive the inaugural National Service Award. This award is presented by the national Order of the Arrow committee to two lodges in each region that have performed outstanding service for their council.

Lodge Chief Patrick DiCaprio was recognized in the 2000 Colgate Youth for America Campaign for his involvement in organizing the food drive.

For more information about the lodge, visit its Web site, http://www.invalley.org/hcbsa/oa.html.

Yustuga Lodge, Pensacola, Florida, hosted the final SR-8B Conclave in April at Camp Euchee. More than 400 Scouts and Scouters attended this historic event, many of whom said that this final conclave of SR-8B was the best ever. Visit the Yustuga Lodge Web site at http://yustaga.tripod.com/.

This year is the 50th anniversary of Kola Lodge, Greely, Colorado. Check out the lodge's Web site at http://kola464.rivcom.net/to learn more about how its members are celebrating the anniversary Amangamek Wipit Lodge, Bethesda, Maryland, helped with the inauguration of President George W. Bush in January. Approximately 175 Arrowmen and Girl Scouts provided assistance during the festivities by distributing programs, ushering, and helping with cleanup in an example of cheerful service. Visit the lodge's Web site at http://mars.umd.edu/oa.html.

Since 1971, the Order of the Arrow's Maury Clancy Indian Campership fund has helped Scouts of American Indian heritage attend an approved council summer camp. Since its creation, more than 1,500 youth have benefited from the fund. Camperships provide funding for up to 50 pecent of the cost of one week at an official BSA summer camp.

The demand for camperships in the last two years has reduced the funds available for the program. In 1999, almost $15,000 was distributed among 205 American Indian Scouts who attended a council summer camp. In 2000, more than $15,200 of the program's funds helped send 219 American Indian Scouts to summer camp.

Because of the increasing number of camperships awarded each year, lodges and sections should give their members every opportunity to learn about and to donate to this scholarship.

In addition to the annual donations by Order of the Arrow lodges and sections, the fund depends upon donations taken at the American Indian show at the National Order of the Arrow Conference.

Contributions should be sent to the Order of the Arrow, 1325 West Walnut Hill Lane, P.O. Box 152079, Irving, TX 75015-2079.

Question: What requirements are changing for the 2001 Quality Lodge Recognition, and why are more requirements becoming mandatory each year?

Answer: There are two changes to the Quality Lodge Recognition Petition for 2001. The first change for this year is that any lodge wishing to receive the Quality Lodge recognition must complete the first 10 of the 18 requirements, plus an additional four of the eight remaining requirements, for a total of 14. The second change affects requirement 9, previously an optional item. In 2001, the lodge must contribute "cash, materials, or both to the council in an amount equal to at least $2 per lodge member."

The honor of Quality Lodge is bestowed upon lodges that continue their service commitment to Scouting. Making more requirements mandatory in the Quality Lodge Recognition Petition raises the bar of excellence for the lodges who participate and increases the benefit for the local councils. A Quality Lodge Recognition Petition for 2001 can be found on the Internet at http://www.oa-bsa.org/resources/forms/.
